

Welcome Imaginauts!

I am pleased to welcome you to a week of experimentation and discovery, as we explore and transform familiar corners of our community through guerilla art. As guerilla artists, we will practice looking for the beauty in everyday objects, planting community friendly works and messages like seeds where others may discover them. Using art and heart, we will help ourselves and others connect with the immediate environment in dynamic new ways.

Our experiments will place special emphasis on close observation, deep listening, and reflection. Each day will include a community journey, site-specific art making, and at-school studio time. We will document our journeys through photography and journaling for presentation.

Preparing for the Adventure

- Our intersession experience is designed to fit within the normal PFFS schedule. Please drop your student off at SCHOOL and pick-up at school at normal hours (8:30am and 3:30pm).
- We will be traveling each day on foot and/or City bus. Participants should wear good walking shoes, loose, comfy clothes that allow for movement. Sack lunches (non-microwavable) and water bottles are a must! Smart Phones welcome!
- Found objects will be key for our studio art making. Students are encouraged to bring interesting everyday items from home to incorporate into collage and sculpture projects.
- Parental Imaginauts Welcome! Please contact me via email or text if you are interested in exploring with us.
